

Validation

Validation is the process of verifying that your prospective users would actually use your product OR Services. In theory, this is simple: talk with people who you think would use your product or Services. What are their initial reactions? What questions do they have?

Our Company has adopted Ideas which has been validated by lots of persons through out the world. We have uploaded some of the success stories under various categories. We will be implementing our programs in rural areas. We will be inviting various partners ( Companies, Institutional and Individual persons ) to participate under CSR.

We have talked to many of them and there is overwhelming response since all the goals we have adopted is beneficial to the society as a whole. There is no negative feedback.
